ARMISTICE DAY IS GAY WITH FLAGS

Under Brilliant Sky, Parade
Moves Through City
with Full Ranks

MANY BANDS PRESENT

National Guards Vie with Gobs for Title of "Dudes"
of the Day

A sky brilliantly blue was the canopy that heaven provided for Glendale's parade and Armistice Day celebration after 48 hours of tantalizing threats of rain. Glendaleans were in tune with the weather and in as smiling a mood.

All the marching companies and most of the autos were at the point of rendezvous on East Broadway by 9:30 and by 10 o'clock were ready to follow the Legion band which was in great form and fettle. When the trolley car from San Pedro bringing sailors and "Vestals" pulled in, a mighty shout went up, the drums began to beat, the horns to play and the parade was on.

The advance guard was a marching squad of Glendale police, very impressive in their dress uniforms. Then came the Glendale Post of the American Legion with the colors, Commander McBryde and his brother officers to the fore, and Dr. Nicoles leading as marshal in chief, assisted along the line by Comrades Jesse Smith, Emil Kiefer, Robert Plume, J. H. Wittmeyer, Allen Bullis, Louis Roberts, R. D. White and C. W. Schwitters.

Marching divisions which followed included: Special guests of the day, the 200 jacksies from the battleships; the American Legion Auxiliary led by its officers; members of the Mary Jane Gillette Tent, Daughters of Veterans; the local camp of Sons of Veterans; Sons of Veterans' Auxiliary; the two National Guard Companies headed by Lieutenant Paul Vissman and his aides, Paul Holland and Kenneth Wilde, all mounted. These marched so well and were so spick and span they divided honors with the gobs as the dudes of the occasion. The machine gun company had its gun wagon equipment which made quite a show.

Then came boy scouts under their troop leaders and carrying their patrol emblems, marshalled by Scout Executive Harold (Benner, and after them Troop No. 1 girl scouts in their uniforms, captained by Miss Gladys Sharpe. Troop No. 2 of which Miss Sinclair is captain, and Troop No. 4, captained by Miss Margaret Sharpe, these last troops costumed in white.

The only civic and fraternal organizations represented in the marching companies were the men of the city fire department with their equipment; the I. O. O. F. Lodge, No. 338; Carnation Lodge of Rebekahs; the Carpenters' Union, No. 533, and last but by no means least the children of the city schools, led by their teachers, and carrying the banners of their various school organizations. Accompanying them were a brave group of P. T. A.'s, led by the president of the federation, Mrs. Eustace B. Moore.

All these marching bodies had their color bearers and it made the heart thrill to see so many flags going down the street to the music of the band and the applause of the populace massed upon the walks and at the intersections of all the streets. At the junction of Broadway and Brand it spread into a great sea of faces which had overflowed the sidewalks into the street leaving scarcely room for the line of march.

Autos draped with the colors and decked with flags carried members of other organizations represented—the "War Mothers," two of whose cars carried "gold star" mothers who had made the supreme sacrifice of motherhood. Officers and members of N. P. Banks Post, G. A. R. and of the Women's Relief Corps were in line, also representatives of the Glendale Chapter of the American Red Cross, the Tuesday Afternoon Club, and the Thursday Club.

After counter-marching on Brand the procession passed to Moyse Field. There, after a few simple evolutions, the marching organizations were arranged in a hollow square, with the color bearers all massed in the center of the square. The boy scout troops gave their A-M-E-R-I-C-A-N yell separately and then all together, the legions, the veterans, the "Star Spangled Banner," in which all joined; all standing in salute to the flag, one volley was fired and the parade was over.

The gobs at once broke rank to see what was doing in the "mess" line and were soon summoned to a noble meal furnished by the merchants of the city and cooked by the regular staff of the High School cafeteria. Every jackie had all he could stow away of roast beef, mashed potatoes and peas,

POPULAR MANAGER OF BRUNSWICK SHOP TO WED

To Marry Miss Annie Lustig
of Los Angeles on Thanksgiving Day

Meyer Lightner, manager of the local Brunswick Shoppe at 126 South Brand, when approached for advertising copy by Mr. Taylor of the Glendale Daily Press, absently minding put a record on the nearest phonograph and the sweet tune of Lohengrin's Wedding March came forth.

Miss Annie Lustig and Meyer Lightner Who Will Wed on Thanksgiving Day

"But about the copy for the ad," said Taylor.

Thereupon Mr. Lightner took another record and went to another phonograph, and the tones of Mendelssohn's Wedding March came forth.

Taylor looked toward the door, shoved his hat on the back of his head and looked from one machine to the other.

Lightner said nothing, but he smiled a big, large, happy smile, as though there was a million dollars' worth of joy somewhere in the other end of the machine he was absorbing it by radio.

"As I was going to say," said Taylor, "we're putting on a special page."

"I don't know how you feel," said Taylor, hesitatingly, "but I don't feel as if I am—well—what's the matter with all this music and—what—don't you feel?"

"I feel like ten thousand little angels were playing harps," said Lightner, "for I am going to be married on Thanksgiving Day, to the best little girl in the world. My Angel Child."

And Taylor threw up his hands and called it a day.

H. S. BISSELL IS HEAD OF LOS ANGELES FARM BUREAU

LA CRESCENTA, Nov. 13.—At a recent board of directors meeting of the Los Angeles Farm Bureau, H. S. Bissell was elected president for the coming year. Mr. Bissell has been an interested and efficient worker in this organization for many years, and the Los Angeles County Farm Bureau is very fortunate in securing him for their president. W. S. Rosencrans was elected executive secretary. An interesting meeting of the farm bureau for this district will be held at the Kirt Bros. ranch, east end of Michigan avenue, north of club house, Tuesday, November 14, at 2 p. m. V. F. Blanchard of the Agricultural Extension Service will discuss pruning principles and conduct a practical demonstration.

Waldorf salad, bread and butter, coffee, cake and a two weeks' tussle with "rhubarb," was given the glad hand. Cam Thom, who earlier in the day had almost met his Waterloo, was there, nevertheless, with the information that a bouquet consisting of a heart full collection of carrots and turnips had been sent to the Mayor, who thought he had eaten the same in soup for dinner.

Owing to the lateness of the hour President Lyman P. Clark did not complete his most interesting report on the Kiwanis club convention at San Francisco. He gave enough, however, to convince the members that the Kiwanis club is up and doing and does not take a "back seat" for any one.

KIWANIS TO GIVE XMAS TREE JOYS

Adopts Herman Nelson's
Suggestion of a Community
Christmas Tree

COOPERATION IS ASKED

Charles Stuart Becomes Poet
Laureate of Organization and Writes Verses

BY W. L. TAYLOR.

The Glendale Kiwanis club will dispense Christmas joy in big chunks. This was the decision arrived at Friday when Herman Nelson, a live wire member of the club, made the suggestion that the Kiwanis club give a community Christmas tree. The club unanimously endorsed the suggestion, and President Lyman Clark stated that each member will be expected to take an active part in putting the big event over. It was also suggested that all the local organizations be asked to aid in the good work.

"I believe the club can do a good work in putting on this tree," said Mr. Nelson, "and it will encourage business here in Glendale which heretofore has gone out of town. I think we should have a large tree erected in the center of the city so that all the children are remembered. Many of us do not have children, but we can help to make some other child or grown-up person happy and thereby get enjoyment out of the event. It is none too early to start on the tree and I hope every member of the club will take an active part in making a community Christmas tree for Glendale a huge success."

Other members of the club heartily endorsed the proposition and the community Christmas tree will be an event in the life of the club that will redound to its honor and the accomplishment of great good in the community.

The next luncheon of the Kiwanis club will mark the ushering in of the season of feasts. A turkey dinner with all the trimmings, including pumpkin pie, cranberry sauce—and, oh, boy, what else I cannot here repeat, will be an attraction that will undoubtedly have a big drawing power. And the program—only Bill Truitt knows what that will be.

The Kiwanis club endorsed the Salvation Army drive for funds, and C. W. Ingledue, Charles R. Stuart, Lyman P. Clark and Sid Brown volunteered to aid in securing funds. Members of the club spoke of their great interest in the drive and every member will lend a helping hand in putting the organization over the top.

Attorney J. F. McBryde strongly urged the members to lend a helping hand. The drive will be on December 5, 6 and 7.

Chairman A. L. Baird was called upon for a report on the progress being made by the sewer committee. He stated that real progress was being made, and that a competent engineer would be secured to make a report and forth the best thing to be done, and the easiest way to solve Glendale's perplexing sewer problem.

The committee is working in conjunction with the city council and is exerting every effort to bring this much mooted and discussed question to an intelligent solution. Charley Stuart has the distinction of holding several important stations in the club. It falls to Charley's lot to see that the club members are properly fed each Friday, and occasionally he is called upon to perform more delicate tasks. And, also, occasionally, Charley writes prose and reads poetry. Listen to his latest effort in the literary line, which he brought forth Friday:

"O, Lord deliver me I pray from berds that feel that they was ment to do the greete big things in life—to be the dollar, not the cent—the fellows who are apt to feel that job which they shood ott to do are far beneath their mitey class, and pass the bukk to me an' you; but, give me, Lord, the gi who thinks he ain't to good to do his part, and bukkies into every job and does his best with all his hart. The prakties that this berd will get in doing things that may be small, will make him redy for the tother job that uther berd caint touch at all."

Taylor Robinson showed his smiling face after a two weeks' tussle with "rhubarb," was given the glad hand. Cam Thom, who earlier in the day had almost met his Waterloo, was there, nevertheless, with the information that a bouquet consisting of a heart full collection of carrots and turnips had been sent to the Mayor, who thought he had eaten the same in soup for dinner.

Owing to the lateness of the hour President Lyman P. Clark did not complete his most interesting report on the Kiwanis club convention at San Francisco. He gave enough, however, to convince the members that the Kiwanis club is up and doing and does not take a "back seat" for any one.

TEACHERS GATHER FOR INSTITUTE AT HIGH

Auditorium Is Well Filled with Instructors When Program Begins

Judged by the smiling, expectant faces which were seen this morning at Glendale High institute for the bored teachers that they used to be. By the opening hour, 10 a. m., the auditorium was well filled with instructors from all parts of the district.

The musical program included numbers by the combined orchestras of the Glendale Avenue and the Wilson Avenue intermediate schools directed by Miss Elsa Brennaman, and choruses by the combined girls' glee clubs of the two schools conducted by Mrs. Etta Kiehl, the girls singing "Pale Moon" (Logan) and "Water Lilies" (Linden).

Mr. Uphoff represented the office of the County Superintendent, and the chief speaker of the morning was Dr. Lee Emerson Bassett, of the English Department of Stanford University, his theme being "How to Appreciate Poetry."

The speaker at the afternoon session will be Dr. Charles Rugh of Berkeley, who will give "A New Definition of Education."

The musical contributions to the institute program by the high school music department under Mrs. Dora Gibson will include a piano solo, "Hark, hark, the Lark" (Schubert-Liszt) played by Lucile Harris, and a violin solo by Hazel Linkugel.

A lunch will be served at noon in the school cafeteria, when there will be a table talks on matters of interest to the teachers.

SHRINE CLUB TO HOLD MAMMOTH XMAS PARTY

To Be for Benefit of Children of the City, on Dec. 28

A mammoth Christmas party will be given by the Shrine Club of Glendale to the children of the city on the evening of December 28th. This decision was reached at a meeting of the members of the club in the chamber of commerce auditorium Saturday night. Santa Claus will be there in all his glory and will play right into the hearts of the little ones.

In addition there will be an excellent musical and literary program, to which everyone in Glendale is invited. The big feature of the evening will be the toys and candy that will be given to the children and the ladies present.

"Nothing will be spared in making this event a howling success," said J. P. Hayselden, chairman of the Christmas party committee, "We're going to show the kids a mighty good time. It is to the unfortunate little ones who are going to pay especial attention. We want all the girls and boys there for we're making all kinds of plans to entertain them."

SOUTH CENTRAL COUPLE ARRESTED

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. McLean, 1531 South C. P. Avenue, were arrested at 11:40 o'clock Sunday night, charged with disturbing the peace. The complaint, it is understood, was turned in by neighbors. Following the arrest Mr. McLean, it is claimed, was relieved of a revolver, which is being held by the police. The offenders will have their preliminary hearing before Judge Lowe today.

Citrus Lightweights—0.
Glendale Lightweights 32.
U. S. S. Vestal—7.
U. S. S. California—59.

Before 5000 people at Moyse field, Saturday, two fighting football teams plunged their way to overwhelming victories over their opponents. After Coach Butterfield's midgets had clinched the Central league pennant by defeating the Citrus lightweights 32 to 0, the U. S. S. California captured a beautiful silver football award by the Glendale Post 127, of the American Legion, by defeating the U. S. S. Vestal, 59 to 7.

A half hour before the first game was called the stands were filled.

In their respective section gobs from the Veterans and California were rooting for their teams. When the Glendale lightweight team came on the field the gobs yelled:

"One, two, three, four—
Who the — are we for?"

White, Glendale's fullback, kicked off to Citrus at 1:30 and the battle for the Central league championship was on.

In the first two minutes of play White picked up Williams' fumble and crossed the goal line but the referee called it back.

White, Glendale's fullback, kicked off to Citrus at 1:30 and the battle for the Central league championship was on.

White was not to be denied a touchdown. Putnam blocked Hostfeldt's punt and held the ball on the Citrus 14-yard line. On the first down White crossed the line. Shuler failed to convert.

After the touchdown, Hostfeldt kept punting for the rest of the quarter. He was waiting for a "break."

The visitors lost heart in the second period and allowed a touchdown by Roberts and Shuler. Roberts contributed to Schuler's score by making 40 yards on an end run, bringing the ball to the Citrus 10-yard line.

Again in the third quarter Hostfeldt tried the punting game. From his own 5-yard line he punted 10 yards. White ran it back 10 yards and on the first down Roberts crossed the line. The Citrus boys then surprised the local boys by completing two 25-yard passes, and it looked like a touchdown but the next one was smared, and Glendale held on her own 20-yard line.

At the beginning of the last quarter the local boys by a series of punts Lovell crossed the line and finished the job by converting with a perfectly placed drop kick. The final whistle prevented another Glendale score.

Immediately after the lightweight game the squads from the California and Vestal took the field. California won the toss and received on her ten-yard line. California punted to the Vestal 35-yard line. The Vestal punter converted their only pass, California winning by a score of California 59, Vestal 7.

ELKS HOLD OPEN HOUSE TO ALL GLENDALE

As a grand finale to the Armistice Day celebration in Glendale, the Elks opened to the public their beautiful clubhouse on East Colorado street, where an evening of dancing, billiards and bowling was enjoyed.

The spacious ballroom was appropriately decorated for the day, with red, white and blue bunting and large American flags. From the ceiling in the center of the room hung a large American flag in front of which hung a large gold star which was illuminated. At the hour of 11, chimes rang out the hour and Arthur Dibern, exalted ruler, brought to the memory of those present, the fact that many of our boys had given their lives gladly. All lights save the large gold star were out and the thoughts of all were turned to those boys who had made the sacrifice for liberty.

The hall was filled to overflowing and the best music was furnished by "Bill" Bode's orchestra. This affair was given largely to entertain the 200 sailors who were guests in Glendale on Saturday, and they all seemed to enjoy themselves. Punch was served all during the evening.

REVIVAL CENTRAL CHRISTIAN

Great Audiences Greet the Opening Meetings
Sunday

SINGING BY CONNERS

Wonderful Patriotic Song
Service Last Night

The revival meetings at Central Christian church began Sunday morning with a very large attendance, which was more than duplicated at the evening service. Rev. Clifford A. Cole, the pastor, who will preach during the entire series of meetings, chose as the subject for his morning sermon, "Who Are the Wise?" A portion of the 20th chapter of Ezekiel was read as a foundation for the discourse, that portion where the responsibilities of the watchman on the city wall and the prophet of Israel were defined. The pastor likened these duties and responsibilities to those of the church members today, warning his hearers that if men, women and children whom they can influence are lost, the responsibility may lie at their doors.

The music, in charge of the Conner Trio was a delight to the entire audience and promised great things for the meetings to come.

The evening song service of half an hour was wholly of a patriotic nature in honor of Armistice Day and the heroes of the three last wars, commencing with "Battle Hymn of the Republic," sung by the Connors, the choir and the audience in one grand chorus. Then followed duets, choruses and hymns, all brimming over with patriotism. Perhaps the most striking of these was "Star Spangled Banner," sung by Mrs. Conner and illustrated in wonderful pantomime movements by Mrs. Helen Conner. Mrs. Conner, dressed as the Goddess of Liberty, the closing number was a flag song by Mr. Conner and Mrs. Nern.

Rev. Cole's sermon topic was "A Voice From the Grave," and the address was built around the story related by Jesus, of the rich man and Lazarus, the beggar. He said that this was a positive statement by the Master and no matter how many people tried to reason themselves into a belief that all the hell there is, we get on this earth, the plain fact stands out that the great and awful punishment comes after death. And no other chance is given, if the Bible be true.

"Our God is a God of love and infinite mercy and patience, but when the sinner disregards every warning and dies in his sins, then the impassable gulf that is fixed between him and heaven by his sins can never be bridged.

"I am not stating these facts to frighten anyone," said Rev. Cole, "but because they are true, and to save you from an eternity of remorse. The most awful words that will be heard by the unrepentant sinner at the bar of God's judgment will be 'Son, remember.' And this torturing memory of the heaven that was thrown away, despite the earnest, tearful appeals of loved ones, will be an unending torment."

Tonight's sermon subject is "Who Is This Christ?" The theme of Tuesday night will be "Why I Am a Christian," and Wednesday night's, "How to Get Married." The Conner Trio will conduct a wonderful song service of 30 to 40 minutes' duration each night with surprise on every occasion. In addition to songs and readings there will be cornet and trombone music. Services begin promptly at 7:45 and will end very shortly after 9.

HEAVYWEIGHTS LOSE TO MONROVIA HIGH

The Glendale high heavyweights were defeated, 12 to 7, by the Monrovia squad at Monrovia, Friday.

Monrovia has not been defeated this year and will probably win the Central league bunting belt.

In Friday's game the Monrovia squad rolled up their two touchdowns in the first quarter but were unable to even make yards for the remainder of the game. Ryan made the local touchdown after a series of line bucks that brought the local boys to the Monrovia five yard line. Butts converted. Three times in the final half the Dynamite threatened the Monrovia goal but only once did they succeed in crossing.

The Glendale lineup:
Marshall, a. g.; Shannon, i. g.; Phillips, a. g.; Clouse, i. t.; Barstow, r. t.; La Valle, i. e.; Horri, r. e.; Gieb, i. h.; Butts, r. h.; Ryan, t.; West, q.

GOLF COURSE TO OPEN AT SUNSET CANYON CLUB

Grand Reception to Take Place on Thanksgiving
Day

Announcements were sent out yesterday of the joint grand opening of the Sunset Canyon Country club house and golf course on Thanksgiving day. Thanksgiving dinner will be served at two, four and six o'clock, with dancing until late evening.

Besides being of genuine pleasure and benefit to its members at such insignificant cost, Sunset Canyon Country club is planned in its class, and at least two years ahead of any other country clubs that may try to equal its success and model after it. It is a valuable asset to Southern California, not only from the standpoint of increased value of the land developed, but also when viewed as an unequalled social, moral, pleasure-giving recreational haven in reach of all worthy people.

Mr. Wm. R. Lynch, formerly of Yosemite lodge, will be manager of the club house, and Mr. William Watson, the noted golf architect will personally manage the golf course, which he constructed.

CHICK WATSON IS SURPRISE TO FANS

Chick Watson of Glendale, surprised local fans Saturday, when he fought Johnny Myers, local fireman, to a draw in the main event of the boxing show at the American Legion hall.

Watson pleased the fans with his aggressiveness. For three rounds he kept Johnny on his guard but in the fourth Myers came back with some hard body blows that slowed Chick up.

Walter Dodge won a close decision from Jack Price. When the referee announced his decision Price showed his dissatisfaction by climbing back in the ring and challenging Dodge for a return bout. The next fight promises to be an interesting affair.

NEWCOMERS PACK REALTY OFFICES

Harry Miller, realtor on East Broadway, says that never in his life, and he acknowledges middle age, has he seen better times than right now.

So much building is in progress that it is very hard to get carpenters and plasterers, though the carpenters are getting $8 and $9 a day and the plasterers $12. Said he: "I have seen the time when hundreds of them were idle at much lower wages."

"We are turning away five and six applicants a day who are seeking houses in which to live. Last week I tried desperately to find a furnished house for a man who had motored all the way from New York with his wife and two children, a boy of 9 and a girl of 14. I finally found one for $70 a month but the landlord refused to let them have it because of the children. They came to Glendale because they had heard so much about it before leaving home and were greatly disappointed at their failure to find a place to live."

BIKE STOLEN
T. C. McDougal, 128 West Elk, reported to the Glendale police that his bicycle was stolen from in front of the high school Friday afternoon. So far as can be learned nothing has been heard of the bike since.

WISCONSIN G. A. R. POST VOTES TO STAND FAST

BERLIN, WIS., Nov. 8.—"Hold together as a post until the last man goes west." This resolution was unanimously adopted by the John H. Williams Post No. 4, G. A. R., said to be the oldest post in the world, at a regular meeting.

The ten members of the post were present. The meeting was to settle finally the question of maintenance of the unit. When the question was put to a vote, ten men arose for continuance of the post.

The unit was the first to be organized in the United States, having been founded in May, 1886. For many years following the close of the civil war, this post had a large membership. The recent years have witnessed a "thinning" out of the ranks of those who wore the "blue" and only ten members remain to "carry on."

The average man is firmly convinced that he does seventeen times as much for others as others do for him.

Love and hate have good memories, only indifference forgets.

"WHO IS GOD?" IS ANSWERED BY REV. EDMONDS

Rev. W. E. Edmonds preached Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church on the subject, "Who is God?"

"God is love. These are three of the most wonderful words handed down to man. Always men and women have been asking, 'Who is God? Does God care? Prove that, and we can face anything. The poor untaught savage sees the storm with fear, a helpless victim out in the open, afraid of God. Are you afraid of Him, questioning if He, full of great things, can care for every detail of your life? The confidence of this will fill you with assurance. The world is full of fear of a hard God."

"We open the pages of the Word and first thing we see 'God is love.' But people go through with their scissors cutting out everything besides this, and so leave a gospel that is false. And others say, looking at the wonders of the universe, 'He is Wisdom.' But after all else, He is a God of love. This contains everything."

"Where is God? 'Our Father who art in heaven,' but also everywhere, and He hears all everywhere."

"A good many people tell us, 'I worship the God of nature.' Is that so? Do you know your God of nature has no mercy? Comes a snake and bites you, you die. A wild beast tears you to death. A splendid strong fellow goes out into the water, a rip tide seizes him, he drowns. That is the god of nature—no mercy. You come home to rest, smell smoke, fire, your house is burned. You are caught and killed in an instant. That is

SOFT DRINKS PAY U. S. $17,000 IN SEPTEMBER

During September the people of the Los Angeles district drank approximately 13,000,000 gallons of soda water and other soft drinks, according to Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell.

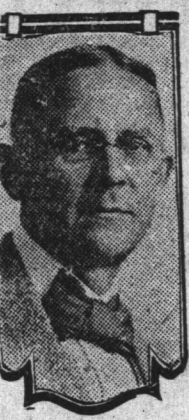

The tax receipts for beverages during the month amounted to $17,772.84 during the month and figured on this basis thirteen million gallons of soft drinks was consumed, enough to irrigate the Los Angeles river or supply Los Angeles' entire water needs for four hours.

With Collector Goodcell sitting tight on several million gallons of wine stored in bonded wineries and more than a hundred thousand gallons of whiskey, gin and brandy safely guarded in government warehouses, Californians evidently are turning to soft drinks much to the delight of the manufacturer of non-alcoholic refreshments.

your god of nature. Is that all the god you want?

"Go back to Genesis, 'In the beginning God created,' the God of wisdom and love created. Here we part company with all false religions. But with all, He is a God of justice and judgment. He has a right and a left hand, and on His left is fire prepared for the devil and his angels. He cannot be a God of love if He is not also a God of justice."

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

LINES TO A PHOTOGRAPHER
Artist, you who posed my head,
Placed me in a high backed chair,
Left me there uncomfortable
Till you fixed a light somewhere:
Then came back and turned my jowl
And who bade me shift my eye
Till I looked like some scared fowl
Looking sidewise at the sky.

Artist, you who fixed me thus,
Trussed up like some thing of wax,
You who with ado and fuss
Bade me kindly to relax
After you had skewered me,
Where so stiffly there I sat,
Artist, now these proofs I see,
Tell me, do I look like that?

Artist, now I see these proofs
Grinning, ghastly, pitted, crude,
Are you one who lightly spoofs
Me with my unpolychrome?
I, who took such noble pride
In my looks, that now is flat,
Tell me, has my beauty died?
Do I really look like that?

Artist, why, Oh, tell me why
When my life was proud and fair
Did you not leave me to die
When I froze up in your chair?
All my days are sad, it seems,
Horror has me on the mat,
And I cry it in my dreams:
"Heavens! Do I look like that?"

FIXED SUPPORT IS SOUGHT FOR KIDDIES' HOME

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.—To insure permanent financial aid and eliminate continued public appeals for support, directors of the Children's Home Society of California today announced their plans for a permanent foundation, together with endorsements from a number of prominent men of the state, including the sheriffs of six counties.

A classified membership plan will be put into effect at once, it is said, with Walter L. Newton, financial director of the society, in charge. Under the new regime, associate, full, sustaining, patron, benefactor and life memberships will be established for the purpose of enlisting a more continuous interest in and support of the work of the society.

It is expected that by means of this plan approximately half a million dollars can be raised as a principal, the interest from which will completely finance the needs of the state-wide charity with branches in Los Angeles and Oakland. With an increasing number of homeless and dependent children to be cared for each year by the society, the question of financial support is said to have assumed difficult proportions.

Many an alleged blessing in disguise wouldn't be a blessing but for the disguise.

FAMILIAR QUOTATIONS

When the bus from old Lunn town broke down and the poet Tennyson had to walk home in the rain: "O that my tongue could utter the thoughts that arise in me!"

When Old Man Shakespeare's flivver developed a carbon tap: "Wake heaven with thy knocking; I would thou couldst."

Heard at Old Omar's secondhand car market: "Ah, take the cash and let the credit go nor heed the rumble."

At Longfellow's garage one reads the motto: "Art is long and Time is fleeting."

If either is a good material for jazzing up the gas tank, why can't someone discover a method of putting these other waves we hear of to some legitimate use?

Owner Refuses to Part With His Dog

Quite a little excitement was created Sunday by an attack which Mrs. Ralph Davis, 1014 S. Brand boulevard, claims was made on her by a big black dog, whose owner was said to live near the corner of Gardena and Wilson, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Davis reported the matter to the Glendale police and the poundmaster was instructed to pick the dog up and hold it for observation. The owner of the dog refuses to give the animal to the authorities, declaring that it had not bitten Mrs. Davis.

WHEN A MAN IS WELL DRESSED IS DISCUSSED

Players of "Tailor Made Man" Describe Man's Garb

Charles Ray, now starring in a screen version of "A Tailor Made Man," a United Artists release at the Glendale theater today and tomorrow, recently asked other members of the cast in this picture to submit an answer to the question: "When is a man well dressed?" Here are a few of the answers:

Ethel Grandin—When his clothes are seen but not heard.

Douglas Gerrard—He approaches sartorial perfection in a happy medium between the habiliments of a stock broker and a music critic.

Victor Fotel—The thoughtful, psychological dresser is one who utterly confuses everyone as to his station in life, thereby lending a mystery to his personality—one who might be an obnoxious player, an undertaker, or both.

Jacqueline Logan—It all depends on his business. If he is an actor and is thereby called upon to work considerably with his necktie, the rest of his garb does not matter. A business man must be much more careful, lest he is suspected of undue disrespect for the community.

Eddie Gribbon—It's not what a man wears but what he does not wear. A man may look perfectly respectable—like a college professor or a janitor—by merely wearing clean, decent, wrist watches, hair vests, and colored handkerchiefs.

Frank Butler—The primary consideration is that he wear something. Secondly, he should dress according to what he intends to live. A Hollywood boulevard actor would surely be burned as a witch or at least beaten soundly by the peasants if he appeared in his native raiment on the streets of Whittier, Long Beach or Garvanza.

Thomas Ricketts—A man is well dressed when he looks immaculate without showing it.

"The Cowboy and the Lady," Paramount's thrilling western with Owen Moore and Mary Miles Minter will be shown at the T. D. & L. theater for the last time tonight. This is indeed an entertaining and enjoyable picture—an excellent story, well told and enacted—and has a happy ending. A Harold Lloyd comedy, latest news weekly and Travelogue, complete the bill.

Tomorrow, Tuesday, the T. D. & L. offers the comedy riot de luxe, "Clarence," with none other than Wally Reid as the star. It is a Wm. De Mille production with all-star cast, and Wally's best picture.

Mrs. Sidney Dell of 928 North Louise street, who has been staying with Mrs. J. N. McGillis of 1003 East Lomita following injuries she received in a fall, has returned to her home and is well on the road to recovery.

The foregoing picture shows one of the new buildings which form part of the half-million-dollar addition to this great institution for Glendale.

Our treatments are the same as used by the famous Battle Creek Sanitarium of Battle Creek, Michigan, and consist of diet, exercise, massage, electric light baths, salt glows, hot applications, hot and cold sprays, galvanic and sinusoidal electricity. The laboratories are equipped with fine X-ray machines with the latest stereoscopic improvements. Here the research work is also extensively carried on.

The efficient methods of treating the sick, combined with a scientific knowledge of the preparations and combinations of foods used in a vegetarian, or so-called non-flesh diet, gives the patient a well-balanced course of treatment. The purpose of this work is to help nature restore health and put one in possession of knowledge that will help them know how to live to maintain health, for it is easier to lose than to regain.

Truths in Epigram

Poverty is uncomfortable, as I can testify; but nine times out of ten, the best thing that can happen to a young man is to be tossed overboard and compelled to sink or swim for himself. In all my acquaintance, I never knew a man to be drowned who was worth the saving.—Garfield.

ALIENIST FOR THE DEFENSE

As a feature of the defense in a murder case now notorious, an alienist went on the stand and swore that the defendant was insane. It is not too much to say that probably not a listener believed him or believed that he believed himself. The fact came out that he had gone through similar experience on behalf of Harry New, now in the penitentiary, for Burch, for the Obenchain woman, and for others. Regularly and consistently he has sworn that each of the accused was an irresponsible lunatic. By such a record one is more likely to prove himself a professional witness than a scientist of standing.

Nobody would assert that at the instant of the commission of a horrible crime, the person committing it could be in a sane and normal condition of mind. This does not argue the irresponsibility of the person. It merely proves that such a person is dangerous, and that by permitting himself or herself to be swayed by criminal impulses, has become a criminal, not the hapless victim of a mental state in which a foul deed may be accomplished and leave no stain of guilt.

The criminal court is not the place for inquisition into the subject of insanity. When the subject is dragged in, the fact is recognized immediately, not as to the effort to demonstrate the truth and uphold justice, but as precisely the contrary. The chronic alienist-for-the-defense may be as mischievous as the confirmed criminal lawyer whose program is a series of subterfuges and trickeries designed to cheat the law.

BUSINESS METHODS

A Milwaukee paper remarks that American business men lead the world in ability "while American government, from the smallest township to the nation itself, is wasteful, extravagant and careless."

In bringing such a sweeping indictment, it might have been well to cite some of the supporting facts, granting that such facts exist. It is probable that the indictment, albeit having a color of justice, is not to be sustained. To make the accusation is easy enough. To make it in seriousness may be quite natural in some circumstances. Yet there is a lack of fairness in the aspersion.

Business men who "lead the world in ability," permit their acumen to be called into question, if the conditions alleged really prevail. If a business man possesses the superior astuteness ascribed to him, he is not making a fortunate display of its effectiveness. What is he supposed to be doing with his superiority when he permits the forms of government which constitute his environment, control his activities, and fix his awards, to indulge in orgies of expenditure? He is an element in these governments. If he does not help to shape them, he is neglecting a plain duty. His equipment of astuteness is doing him small good. He is getting exactly the sort of governments, big and little, that he deserves.

Government is extravagant at times. This government was wildly so as a preliminary of the war. Who were the "dollar-a-day" folk so proudly giving their services and directing various phases of the financial deals? Who indeed, but business men? The acumen devoted to the feathering of personal nests, and utterly forgetful of the common good, is nothing of which to be proud. And if the big, able and honest business men of the country do not themselves accept civic responsibility, or do not seek to have it placed in competent hands, they are bringing about the very condition at which the Milwaukee editor repines.

EXPLAINING A SHORTAGE

"Bookmakers got it. It bet on race horses. They always lost."

Such is the explanation made by a former official of Los Angeles. He had been trusted, and he betrayed the trust. The amount of his stealings will be made good by a bonding company. Then the law will exact a penalty. Perhaps after bearing the penalty, the man will emerge desirous of reform, make a new start and lead an honorable career. The chances, as sadly enough confirmed by precedents, are against this.

Betting on horse races is a ruinous, and therefore a grossly foolish occupation. Here and there is the individual who "follows the ponies" with temporary success, as was the case of "Pittsburgh Phil." Such an instance is exceptional. It is nothing that the financially ambitious can afford to accept as a model.

The impulse to bet on races would be less to be condemned if the better was not prone to use for the purpose money not belonging to him. Often the money has been stolen outright. Others use that which should be devoted to the support of families, or the payment of debts, this being only another form of theft. With the habit once acquired, the victim is likely to go on fattening the bookmakers of the track until there is discovery. Ruin follows as a matter of course. There is disgrace, loss of position, doom of prospects.

To add bitterly, "bookmakers got it" is confession. It is not excuse. It is worse than no excuse. There are circumstances often that may soften the judgment towards certain law-breakers. The donation of pilfered funds to the maw of the bookmaker, is far from being such a circumstance.

One of the appeals for a full vote was based on the anxiety of Europe as to the outcome of elections in the United States. Europe cared nothing about the outcome. It had not the slightest reason to suppose that results would have any bearing on international relations. The people over there do not know the significance of "republican" and "democrat" here. Many people at home are sim-arly ignorant. Regardless of party triumph, Europe might have known in advance that it would continue to get a square deal from this country.

Two people recently were killed by carbon monoxide gas released into their home by the agency of heating stoves. No such possibility should be tolerated. If the use of gas stoves is fraught with so grave a danger, they ought to be inhibited as stringently as any other deadly weapons.

THE FOOL

By DR. FRANK CRANE

One of the season's offerings of drama is a play entitled THE FOOL.

The gist of this drama is the somewhat familiar idea that any one who conscientiously puts into practice the teachings of Jesus Christ will be considered a fool by the worldly wise, yet that in reality he will be exercising the highest wisdom.

Any contribution to an intelligent interpretation of religion by the stage is welcome. While religion has its special advocate in the church, it should permeate into all departments of human activity, and be frankly discussed in business councils, Dr. Frank Crane, bar association, teachers' meetings and labor unions, and also be treated in works of romance, in essays, in school books and volumes of philosophy. Religion is as universal as the spirit of man.

The play is pretty well soaked with mediaevalism, reverence and sincerity, shows the hand of an amateur, of one who is smitten with the intense beauty and idealism of Christ's program, yet who has not thought the matter carefully out, and who is unfamiliar with the accumulated experience of those who have applied the spirit of Christ to modern conditions.

The author appeals to those who regard the program of Jesus with the kind of passion that is enthusiastic over old cathedrals, the tales of William Morris, and a general admiration for the picturesque and antiquated. The phrase "The Imagination of Christ" is somewhat misleading. A better phrase would be "Inspiration from Christ."

We are not going to save the world far idealism by abandoning the demonstrations of science for the pathetic heroism of unintelligent credulity. If one would "go about doing good" today, he should adjust himself to the conditions of today. There is no ground for thinking that the commandment given by Jesus to a certain young man that he sell all he had and give to the poor was intended for a general rule of society. In fact, if we will obey this literally, the world would speedily slump into barbarism.

Men like Henry Ford and John H. Patterson and other great humane employers, who give work to thousands of their fellow men and enable them to make a living in self-respect, are doing more good than all the hermits that ever lived who crawled off into the desert or some other retreat to reflect upon the wickedness of the world.

In fact, few things are more dangerous to the real soul of Christianity than a narrow and slavish literalism. "The letter killeth" always. My own belief is that there is more religion, altruism and idealism in the world today than ever before. It is not labeled, it is not militant, it is not controversial, but it is real just the same, and waters the roots of life in the most just, humane and progressive period of history.

That incident in the play where the hero, who is supposed to represent the Christ man, tells the woman that it is her duty to go back and live with a husband who is a drunken and licentious degenerate, is a good illustration of how perverted and cruel literalism may become.

There never was an age when the world needed the beautiful idealism of Jesus more than this age; but there never was an age that needed more intelligence in the understanding of it.

10. Mary at the close of her trip will spend the day with Mrs. Roth.
11. Mary will walk from the depot to Mrs. Roth's.
12. Mary should walk from the depot to Mrs. Roth's.
13. Mary intended to go at two today but after her mother told her Bertha phoned to Mrs. Roth she knew she would not be there to meet her.
14. At two today Mary had decided to go, but her mother saw Bertha and she knew she had phoned so Mrs. Roth would not be there to meet her.
15. If the day is fair without fail Mary will leave for the seashore early, if unsettled Mary will take the steamer at two arriving at the seashore and at Mrs. Roth's at three.
16. Is it correct to write time or should time be given in figures as 2 a. m., 3 p. m., 12 m., or is it just as well to write noon.

Answer:

In numbers 5, 11, 12 and 15, Roth's should have been spelled as I have written it in this sentence. At shows carelessness in 13. Its should have been written it's in 7. An interrogative point (?) should have followed the sixth sentence, and a comma should have followed 12 M., but 15 would be better spoken into two sentences. Numbers 1, 2, 3, 5, 6, 11, and 12 are correct, with the exception of Roth's and evening tide. Evening tide is correct. 7. Mary will leave for the seashore without fail, if it's not raining.

8. If Saturday is fair, Mary will leave for the seashore without fail. 9. "At the end of her trip" should come first. 10. Mary should follow trip. 11. Mary intended to go out today (to-day) is also correct, but not to day, but after her mother told her that Bertha had phoned to Mrs. Roth she knew Mrs. Roth would not be there to meet her. 14. See number 13. Two A. M. is better form than 2 A. M. Noon, twelve noon, or 12 noon is correct. 15. If the day is fair Mary, without fail, will leave for the seashore early; if unsettled, she will take the steamer at two, arriving at the seashore and at Mrs. Roth's at three.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

One time there was a Public Estimator. An office of which you have perhaps not heard.

It is an imaginary office. Created for the purpose of this Listening Post.

As we have to create many persons and things.

The Public Estimator has to do with public opinion.

Respecting various individuals.

Who occupied various places of importance and trust.

The Public Estimator went about quietly. Here and there.

And listened.

And learned.

Then he collected and collated and indexed and assorted his information.

The knowledge he was able to gain.

Respecting various persons.

And he set it all down so that he might give a fair statement of public opinion.

And then various persons who really wanted the truth came to him.

And wanted to know where they stood in the public eye.

Because it is a good thing to know just what people think of you.

It enables you to take stock of yourself and mend your ways sometimes.

So the Public Estimator sat in his office. And the Public Official came.

And asked for an estimate of himself.

"The people have much confidence in me," said the Public Official. "They think I am capable and honest and trustworthy."

And the Public Estimator went through his records.

Looked up and down and crosswise.

Through various books and statements and tables.

And then he said:

"You are entirely mistaken. Public opinion of you is not good. People think you are deceitful and selfish and untrustworthy. They are waiting for a chance to kick you out."

And the Official gasped.

And went forth with a flea in his ear, as they say.

Began to take stock of himself.

Discovered where public opinion was pretty nearly true.

And set out to correct his mistakes and undo his misdeeds and temper his selfishness.

And in the end he became a pretty good official.

And an alleged Philanthropist came.

And he said to the Public Estimator: "The people have a high opinion of me. I have done much for them."

And the Public Estimator went through his records.

And then he said:

"The people look upon you as a fraud and a sham. They find no real unselfishness in you. They find you desirous of acclaim that you do not deserve."

And the Philanthropist went forth.

And saw his own fault.

And sought to cure it.

And so a Public Estimator would be a good institution.

Where we could discover what people really and honestly think of us.

What measure they take of us.

How they see through pretense and sham. It would enable us to correct our faults.

To get away from sham and pretense.

To discover our many weaknesses and imperfections.

To take stock of ourselves truthfully.

And as for you?

What do you think the Public Estimator would honestly say about you?

And then he said:

"You are entirely mistaken. Public opinion of you is not good. People think you are deceitful and selfish and untrustworthy. They are waiting for a chance to kick you out."

And the Official gasped.

And went forth with a flea in his ear, as they say.

And as for you?

What do you think the Public Estimator would honestly say about you?

And then he said:

"You are entirely mistaken. Public opinion of you is not good. People think you are deceitful and selfish and untrustworthy. They are waiting for a chance to kick you out."

And the Official gasped.

And went forth with a flea in his ear, as they say.

Began to take stock of himself.

Discovered where public opinion was pretty nearly true.

And set out to correct his mistakes and undo his misdeeds and temper his selfishness.

And in the end he became a pretty good official.

And an alleged Philanthropist came.

And he said to the Public Estimator: "The people have a high opinion of me. I have done much for them."

And the Public Estimator went through his records.

And then he said:

"The people look upon you as a fraud and a sham. They find no real unselfishness in you. They find you desirous of acclaim that you do not deserve."

And the Philanthropist went forth.

And saw his own fault.

And sought to cure it.

And so a Public Estimator would be a good institution.

Where we could discover what people really and honestly think of us.

What measure they take of us.

How they see through pretense and sham. It would enable us to correct our faults.

To get away from sham and pretense.

To discover our many weaknesses and imperfections.

To take stock of ourselves truthfully.

And as for you?

What do you think the Public Estimator would honestly say about you?

And then he said:

"You are entirely mistaken. Public opinion of you is not good. People think you are deceitful and selfish and untrustworthy. They are waiting for a chance to kick you out."

And the Official gasped.

And went forth with a flea in his ear, as they say.

Began to take stock of himself.

Discovered where public opinion was pretty nearly true.

And set out to correct his mistakes and undo his misdeeds and temper his selfishness.

And in the end he became a pretty good official.

And an alleged Philanthropist came.

And he said to the Public Estimator: "The people have a high opinion of me. I have done much for them."

And the Public Estimator went through his records.

And then he said:

HI PAGEANT OF NATIONS VERY IMPRESSIVE

The Misses Magnussen and Hill Write Speeches and Students Exemplify

The impressive feature of the Pageant of the Nations that participated in the World war which was put on at the high school in the Armistice day program of Friday morning, apart from the costuming was the speech written for each representative, expressing as it did in terse phrase and lofty sentiment the spirit with which each entered the war and its reason for so doing.

The speeches, written by Miss Magnussen and Miss Hill, of the English department, follow:

Serbia and Balkan States
Fredericka Marshall
Out of the Balkans, Serbia stood forth
The guardian of races long oppressed,
Ready to surrender even nationality
In those brief hours given by the
Austrian ultimatum,
Even so the Central Powers attacked
her capital,
And set aflame the torch of war.
Russia and Poland
Elizabeth Higgins
To rescue her brother Slavs of
Serbia,
Came great Russia of the frozen north.
For years oppressed by tyrant hand
Those countless numbers felt their strength;
By the surge of liberty to power—

Overthrown that dynasty, the Romanoffs.
In purpose all united, called to aid
The Poles, the Cossacks and the Czechs.
And joining hands with France across the continent,
She formed the link between the East and West.

Isabel Toussy
All hail the hero-heart of France! Whose "Polius" held the German horde
While others gathered for the fray.
Who suffered, struggled, bled and fought.
When General Foch's watchword at Verdun
Electrified the world—"They Shall Not Pass."

Belgium
Genevieve Allardice
O Belgium, peaceful, helpless, unprepared,
A neutral nation taken unawares
By tyrant foe and power o'er run.
What of that treaty of neutrality? A scrap of paper, disregarded by that tyrant foe.
And while the distant nations heard the call
We rallied round our standard and our king.
The world now knows our colors—red, yellow and black.
The emblem of the sacrifice we made.

England
Marjorie Bailey
O proud Britannia! Ruler of the waves,
Whose flag unfurled on distant shores,
Who counted in her patriotic ranks
That Commonwealth of Nations.
The famous regiment of Princess Pat fought side by side
With sons of Erin and with kilted Highlanders,
With turbaned brother of the land of Rajahs,
With Boers, with Welsh, and Anzacs.
Immortal leaders: Allenby, Kitchener, Haig,
Marched the forces of the realm
And neutral rights of Belgium be maintained.
As numbers fell upon the foreign fields
In Palestine, at sea, and on the continent.
Each regiment in turn sent back the call to Others—"Carry on."

Japan
Florence Hamilton
From the Far East that cry was
Wrongly placed
And a sleeping power awoke
From dreams of Oriental conquest
To uphold
The pact between the Angles and the far-famed Nipponese.

Italy
Italia! For years your faith was
Wrongly placed
In friendship strong with policy of blood and iron
But courage woke to break the spell
Of conquering power
And you—the proud support of allied strength
Gave of your blood to check the on-marching foe

And saved the day, your country and your flag.

Greece
Dorothy Gilliland
O, heroes of old! who the torch of Liberty upheld
And in the Golden Age of Pericles
Gave birth to Freedom and Democracy.

Against the spirit rallied to the cause
Of rights of nations—great and small.

China
Eleone Truitt
A mighty empire of the Past has found itself
And added to her standard colors new.
Has kept the black and gold for Manchu dynasty
And taken as emblem of Democracy
Red, White and Blue.

And with these colors joined the allies.

The first Republic of the Orient.
Brazil and South America
Eleanor Foster
In the spirit of friendly intercourse
And mutual understanding
Was formed a union called the Pan-American.

Which had gained great strength in Congresses assembled.
Your ideals of arbitration held aloft before the world
Based upon the common custom
Handed down by many nations in their international law
Showed your willingness to follow and accept
The policy America found just.

America
Emma Laura Cooper
Westward the trend of empire
And westward now the call to duty
Fell upon our ears that civilization to protect.

You banished hope of bringing peace by mediation—
And, driven to the break by Teuton policy of ruthlessness,
Its disregard of laws of nations and humanity,
Threw yourself wholeheartedly into the conflict,
And took your stand at Chateau Thierry.

The Argonne and Belleau Woods
To hold at bay the Teuton line
"That the world might be made safe for democracy."

Red Cross
Kathleen Campbell
Now that those nations' heroes gather
Who heard the call to duty
And in answer gave their last full measure of devotion—
I come to offer my tribute to those
Who fought and to those who patiently waited.

The return of the unknown soldier,
And to praise the heroism and the sacrifice
That unite in human sympathy and brotherhood
The children of the Greatest Mother of the world.

REALITY OF SIN IS TOLD BY REV. KEITH BROOKS

Leading the men's Bible class of the Presbyterian church at the city hall Sunday at 9:30, Rev. Keith L. Brooks said:

"Our lesson today is introductory to John's First Epistle. Unlike other epistles, this has no address and does not contain the name of any person or place. For this reason it is called the 'Catholic epistle.'"

This epistle was probably written about 90 A. D. at Ephesus. By this time the old controversies which mark Paul's writings, such as law, circumcision and Mosaic forms had died out. Ephesus was a metropolitan city, the center of religious cults of all kinds. The earliest Christians became tainted with these erroneous teachings and the Book of Acts tells us how the Christians had a bonfire and burned up the false writings they had procured. Ephesus must have been very much like Los Angeles, where almost every known cult has its headquarters.

Ephesus was the headquarters of a sect known as the Gnostics. They professed to explain and harmonize everything. They taught that matter was the source of all evil; that the human body was not real, but only seemed to be. Some of the foundation teachings of the Gnostics are today being dishied up in new form and handed out as the latest thing in religion. John's Epistle is especially directed against these teachings.

"The peril to Christianity in John's time was not pagan assault, but those professing to accept the substance of Christianity, then so interpreting the facts as to destroy the whole meaning of the Gospel. This is the peril of the church today."

John first sets his readers right by going to the roots of the sin question. He shows that sin cannot be denied, that it is a willful departure from the will of God and that Jesus Christ is the only cure for it. Light views of sin always result in a weak conception of God and wrecks spiritual life. Sin is a problem for science, an enigma for philosophy, but the Christian believer may look the facts in the face, for he has a Savior who gives the victory over sin.

"From Eden to the present, the devil's work has been to belittle sin. The modernist who makes light of sin's guilt and the necessity of Christ's atoning work and regenerating work in the heart of man, is blowing up the deepest foundations of the Christian life. No wonder we have waves of crime when church leaders deny the Bible teaching as to sin, and so let down the bars that have caged tigers and hyenas in human form. Explaining sin away will never put it away. Jesus Christ is the only Savior from sin. He is not simply a help to a world in trouble, but the world's only and all-sufficient hope."
